Article

A writer watched Coachella 2026 from home through the official YouTube stream and shared the best and worst moments from weekend one. Watching from home made it easy to see many performances and follow reactions online.

The writer loved Jack White's surprise set, Turnstile's emotional opening message from Brendan Yates' father, and the wild Nine Inch Noize performance with scary zombie dancers. Justin Bieber also got attention for singing along with old videos of himself, and The Strokes made people laugh with jokes during their set.

On the negative side, the writer thought Sabrina Carpenter's show was too focused on visuals and not exciting enough to watch. Anyma had to cancel because of safety concerns, and a large light reportedly fell and hit a woman at the DoLab tent.

The writer also disliked Geese covering Justin Bieber and a strange guest moment where Billy Corgan appeared during sombr's set. After a dramatic first weekend, the writer said they could not wait to see what happens in weekend two.
