Rapper Offset is in stable condition in a hospital after he was shot outside a Florida casino on Monday. His spokesperson said he is being closely monitored after the shooting in the valet area outside the Seminole Hard Rock hotel and casino. The statement said doctors are continuing to watch his recovery.

Police said the shooting happened after a fight. Rapper Lil Tjay was arrested over the earlier altercation and was booked on disorderly conduct and driving without a valid license, but not in connection with the shooting itself. Officers also detained two other people while they continued the investigation, and a message was left with Lil Tjay's lawyer for comment.

The police department said the site is secure and there is no threat to the public. Offset, whose real name is Kiari Kendrell Cephus, was a member of Migos, the Atlanta hip-hop trio known for hits such as Versace, Bad and Boujee, MotorSport and Walk It Talk It. The group also earned Grammy nominations and became famous for its rapid-fire rap style.

The shooting also brought back memories of tragedy around the group. Fellow Migos member Takeoff died in 2022 after he was shot outside a Houston bowling alley. Offset was formerly married to Cardi B, and the two share three children even though she filed for divorce in 2024. News of another violent incident involving a Migos member quickly drew attention from fans and the music world, and police said operations at the site continued as normal. worldwide.
